RETAINING WALL AT ISLAND CREEK IS UP TO COUNCIL

Board of Public Works Has No Money With Which to Pay For it.

Engineer Desires to Postpone Construction.

BONDS GIVEN TO PROTECT CITY.

When the board of public works opens bids for the retaining wall on Meyers street, Mechanicsburg, at the approach to Island Creek, where sidewalks are to be built, the contractors will be informed that the board accepts all bids conditional upon the general council appropriating money for the work. It will cost approximately $3,000 to build the wall and no money will be available until the general council appropriates it.

This fact will be communicated to the general council, and it is probable that City Engineer Washington will submit a formal report setting forth the fact that if the wall is built now, it may not conform to the location of the proposed new bridge, making it necessary to do, at least, part of the work over.

For that reason Mr. Washington has opposed constructing the walls until the bridge is definitely located and the plans for it finally adopted.

In order to build sidewalks to the Island creek crossing, it will be necessary to construct a retaining wall for about 250 feet on either side of the street. The walls will be high, as the depression of the creek bed is quite deep at the Fourth street bridge. The general council endorsed the proposal to build the wall and it was then up to the board of public works to follow instructions and advertise for bids. Then the board inquired of City Solicitor Campbell what money could be used for the work, and was informed by him, that the money will have to be appropriated by the general council.

Contract Let Tomorrow.

The contract for the construction of concrete sidewalks in Mechanicsburg will be let by the board of public works at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Several out-of-town contractors are already here and there will be a large batch of bids on hand. Bids have been sent in by all of the local contractors and as the work is to be large batch of bids on hand. Bids have been sent in by all of the local contractors and as the work is to be done on the ten-year payment plan the contractors are anxious for the work, as they receive their money immediately after completion of the improvement. By this reason the city is enabled to get work done at a much cheaper price than before.

Bonds to Protect City.

Bonds to protect the city against any liability for damages arising on account of the First National and the City National banks undermining the sidewalks at their new buildings, were filed today. They are both in the sum of $5,000 and are perpetual.

A Bean Brummet.

A bean sprout gurgled forced his way into the tailor shop of J. L. Thompson on the first floor of the Fraternity building Sunday night, carrying off three new coats and two pairs of trousers. One suit had just been completed for City Solicitor James Campbell, while another had been made for Mr. Harry Fisher. The police are working on the robbery.

VOTES FOR WOMEN URGED.

Suffragist Party Addresses Crowd in Springfield, Ill.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22.—Before a large crowd on the courthouse square, Catherine Waugh McCullough, of Evanston, Mrs. Eugenie M. Bacon, of Decatur, and Mrs. Myra Strawn, of Hartshorn, of the suffragist flying squadron, which is touring Illinois in behalf of the ballot for women, delivered addresses.

Mrs. McCullough condemned legislative corruption and declared her tour of the state indicated to her that Republicans and Democrats are going to retire from the legislature those members of that body who voted for Lorimer for United States senator. She urged the voters to pledge their candidates for the legislature to woman suffrage.

Irish Object to Pictures.

Dublin, Aug. 22.—The Catholic church has started a crusade against the Jeffries-Johnson fight pictures. On their first production in Ireland today the archbishop of Dublin protested to the mayor. The campaign will be organized and pushed in England as well as Ireland.

State's Attorney Wayman Begins Effort to Open Illinois Jackpot Case Before Court in Chicago

State's Case for Prosecution
at the Second Trial of Lee
O'Neal Browne, Minority
Leader of Legislature.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The real commencement of the Lee O'Neal Browne trial came today when State's Attorney Wayman presented the state's side of the famous case. If Judge Kersten sustains the point of law made by Wayman the entire legislative jack-pot will be revealed. White will go on the stand today. He has been under guard ever since the first trial, in order to combat any attempt for him to change his testimony. Wayman's address today was largely a recital of the first trial.

Browne was the minority leader in the lower house of the last general assembly at Springfield, and he is accused in the confessions of three Democrats, who broke from their party nominee and supported Lorimer for United States senator, with being a party to bribing them.

At the last trial of Browne the jury disagreed and the state's attorney declared it had been tampered with. During the effort to secure a jury for this trial, detectives visited the homes of veniremen and used persuasion and intimidation to make them lenient toward the defendant. The judge discharged one whole panel because it had been tampered with.

TO REGULATE IMMIGRATION.

Entry of Russian Jews Through Galveston to Be Closely Watched.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The entry of Russian Jews immigrants at the port of Galveston, Tex., will be regulated more closely in the future. Department of commerce and labor officials reached this decision after an investigation which convinced the immigration authorities that the laws have been loosely enforced.

Three shiploads of Russian Jews have landed at Galveston since June 24. The latest arrived last Wednesday. The action of department officials in refusing admission to the 100 Jewish immigrants on board has been the subject of protest.

While the department disavows any intention of discriminating against that class of immigrants, Assistant Secretary Cable is determined the immigration standards at Galveston shall come up to those required at other ports.

Ashbrook New Holiness Head.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 22.—The Illinois Holiness association, in annual campmeeting here today, elected officers as follows: President, the Rev. W. A. Ashbrook, Springfield; first vice president, the Rev. O. W. Rose, Kewanee; second vice president, J. M. Williamson, Virginia; treasurer, C. S. Keehn, Springfield; secretary, Thomas Mason, Springfield; first assistant secretary, W. A. Nickey, Springfield.

Youth Killed at Baseball.

Columbus, O., Aug. 22.—Wayne Hinkle, aged 19, Ohio State University student, was struck over the heart with a pitched ball while playing baseball at Rye Beach on Lake Erie today, and died a short time afterwards.

American Aviator Has More Trouble

London, Aug. 22.—Further misfortune attended John Moissant's flight from Paris to London today. In company with his mechanic, Filibus, he ascended at Upchurch at 4:39 a. m., in the face of a 39 mile gale. He attempted to get away for over an hour, and alighted at Seven Oaks, no nearer London than before. He made the ascent at terrific speed, landing in a plowed field and breaking the propeller and other parts of the machine. Repairs have been wired for and the flight will be renewed tomorrow.

Sailors Drown.

London, Aug. 22.—Eighteen sailors are reported drowned when the steamer Bedford went aground at an island at the opening of the Yellow sea, according to dispatches today.

WAS WELLS' POT OF GOLD AT END OF THE RAINBOW?

Strange Voice Declares Young Man is Victim of Conspiracy.

He Returns to Paducah From the Asylum.

CONTINUES IN PUBLIC EYE.

When some one, representing himself to be Dr. J. E. Renders, of the Western Kentucky Asylum, staff called up The Evening Sun and informed a reporter that Charles H. Wells, was not insane but the victim of a conspiracy in Calloway county, it was learned that Wells had made his way from Hopkinsville to Paducah and that Dr. Renders had not been in Paducah, and had not called up the newspaper to make that startling allegation.

Wells will be remembered as the young man who created a sensation a year or more ago, by telling the newspaper boys that he had discovered a pot, containing $5,600 in Ballard county, where he was digging in the interest of saw mill foundations. This gold was sold in Cincinnati at a premium of almost 50 per cent.

That was the end of Charles H. Wells, as far as publicity was concerned, until a few months ago, when he was declared insane by a jury in the county court at Murray, and sent to Hopkinsville.

The voice, impersonating Dr. Renders over the phone, said Well's eyes had been injured by a severe illness, but that he was not insane. Dr. Sights said over the phone today that the only man Wells exhibited there was with regard to the gold, and, of course, they did not know whether he had ever found any gold.

Judge Patterson at Murray said there was no question about Wells' peculiar actions prior to his lunacy inquest, and reputable physicians and his own family considered him self not responsible. Judge Wells said the young man's father, John Wells, is seen by him frequently, and the father is convinced at his son's irresponsibility. Judge Patterson said the pot of gold is mythical.

Wells made his way to Paducah several days ago and made himself known to County Judge Barkley. He is supposed to be around here yet.

KYLE AND DECKER JOIN THE INDIANS

RECRUITS, WHO ARE SAID TO BE HARD HITTERS—GAMES TRANSFERRED.

Kyle and Decker, two new Red Skins, made their first appearance at League park this afternoon with the Indians. Decker is covering third sack and Kyle is stationed in right field. They reached Paducah yesterday evening and come recommended as top notchers and good men with the willow. Pat Runyan is tossing the sphere this afternoon for the Indians and Demare is opposing him. Both Paducah and Hopkinsville have taken a game out of the series, today's game being the last. Paducah goes to Clarksville by agreement, playing there tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday. The games scheduled between Paducah and Clarksville at the Tennessee city for Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be played at Paducah. The transfer was made because Sunday ball is not allowed in Clarksville. After Clarksville, McLeansboro will be here for three games with Vincennes and Hopkinsville.

Forest Fires in Northwest Which Destroyed Towns and Many Lives Continue Unchecked by Fighters

Score or More of Rangers
Are Not Accounted For—
Situation on Mountain
Slopes Increasingly Serious

TYPHOID.

Lynnville, Aug. 22. (Special)—
Two are dead and four dying of typhoid in one Lynnville family.

Spokane, Aug. 22.—Today's reports indicate that the situation is worse today than it was yesterday. There were more alarming developments today in the St. Croix district, near the state line, where 200 rangers are said to be surrounded with little hope of escape.

It is reported that 138 fire fighters have been burned to death at Avery, Idaho, today. Two thousand refugees are quartered at Missoula. Scores are permanently blind by heat and smoke, almost nude, and some terribly burned. The troops are exhausted but more are being sent from Spokane.

Spokane, Aug. 22.—There is scarcely any sign of abatement in the forest fires which Saturday and Sunday wiped out Walla, Idaho, and several other towns. Upwards of 40 persons have perished and millions of dollars in property have been destroyed. It is yet impossible to estimate the loss. The death list will not be less than 40 and may exceed 75. Reports from the St. Jo country say that 175 forest rangers, fighting the fire, have not been accounted for.

Mercilessly and relentlessly forest fires in western Montana and Idaho are sweeping over a vast area, driving hundreds of fugitives before them, destroying small settlements and wiping out of existence millions of dollars worth of property.

The situation is more serious than it has ever been, except as to Wallace, Idaho, where it is believed that nearly half of the city will be saved. Communication with Wallace to the west has been possible at intervals, but eastward it is entirely cut off. It is known that the entire east half of the town above Seventh street has been burned.

West of that hard fight is being made and with an improvement in the water supply there is more chance that the flames may be driven back. For a few minutes the Daily Missoulian's reporter at Wallace had a wire. He summarized the situation as follows:

Rich Timber Going Down.

Bute, Mont., Aug. 22.—A miners' special from Bozeman says:

A dangerous fire is raging under a high wind several miles south of here. It has just crossed Mount Ellis and is invading some of the most valuable timber of the region.

The fire has progressed through the forest at the rate of more than a mile an hour and the powerful flames have been visible several hours at a distance of seven or eight miles in the daylight. It is not possible to get the extent of the burned area, but it is many square miles. Forest Supervisor Conklin has been calling for a hundred men to fight the fire, but thus far only 35 have responded. They have been sent to the front.

After Incendiaries.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The forest service today wired Assistant Forester Buck at Medford, Oregon, to use the most urgent methods to apprehend the men who are supposed to have deliberately set the Oregon forest fires. At the same time an appeal was sent to Washington for more troops.

When the fire approached the camp where there were 200 men, two of the fighters took a horse, and riding the animal to death, rode from the camp and ordered a rescue party which penetrated the fire to Bird Creek.

Eighteen of the men were found in the water, where they had gone for safety and they were unharmed.

Relief Train Out.

From the remaining 180 men no word has been received. A relief train, well equipped with pack animals, has been ordered, carrying provisions and hospital supplies, and will endeavor to get through the fire. About a thousand refugees have been brought into Missoula. There is much distress among them, but their wants are being supplied by Missoula people and they have been given temporary homes. The first of the trains came in over the Northern Pacific's Couer d'Alene branch and brought the patients who had been in the Sisters' hospital at Wallace and as many refugees as could find places on the small train.

There were 250 on this train and a second train brought as many more. These people came from the small towns along the line between here and Wallace. Many of them had been roused from their sleep by the people on the train, whose summons had been the first intimation that the fire was near as there had been no sign of it when the people went to bed Saturday night.

In most instances these people escaped only scantily clad. A woman who had fled from her home at midnight gave birth to a child in a box car just after the arrival of the first train at Missoula. Hospitals are caring for the sick. Missoula homes have been opened freely and the homeless are comfortable for the present.

Town of Taft Burns.

Another train with 500 people on board is expected over the Chicago, Milwaukee & Puget Sound railway. The dense pall of smoke hangs all over eastern Montana. In Missoula it was as dark as midnight at 5 o'clock. The dense smoke giving a lurid hue which had all the semblance of the glow of fire, which was probably due to the sun.

Jonah Starks Said to Have Reached Illinois

VICTIM IS MUCH IMPROVED.

While attempting to quiet a disturbance at a "moonlight" at Elva Miller's home near Woodville, Harry Mansfield was stabbed in the left breast Saturday night by Jonah Starks, 16 years old, of Ballard county. Starks made his escape and is said to be in Illinois.

Mansfield's wound, while near a vital spot, is thought not to be necessarily fatal. He is improving today.

It is the custom in the rural sections during the period of the full moon to hold what they call "moonlights," on Saturday nights, when barbecue, ice cream and dancing are enjoyed by the young people of the neighborhood. Sometimes the swains fill up on "moonshine" so as to be harminious without and within, and trouble comes of the combined spell of the moonlight and moonshine. It was at one of these social functions near Oscar, Ballard county, that Crit Haynes was shot the Saturday night before.

Mansfield stands high in the community around Woodville.

WOMEN DROWN

MISSISSIPPI AND TENNESSEE WOMEN MEET DEATH.

Mrs. A. Virgil Patton, Jackson, Miss., and Miss Christine Patton, Santa Fe, Tenn., Victims.

Jackson, Tenn., Aug. 22.—I. B. Tiggert, cashier of the Union Bank and Trust company, of this city, received a telephone message from Columbia, Tenn., telling of the death by drowning of Mrs. A. Virgil Patton, wife of A. V. Patton, the insurance manager of the Union Bank and Trust company, of this city, and Miss Christine Patton, of Santa Fe, Tenn., sister of Mrs. Patton.

Mrs. Patton's brother, Eugene Patton, of Rochester, N. Y., and the two ladies were fishing in Duck river and decided to go into the water. The ladies were wading near Duck Island and the gentlemen were swimming some distance away when suddenly the ladies got too near a strong undercurrent and were drawn under. The men saw them and almost lost their lives in a desperate attempt to save them.

The body of Miss Christine was found in about an hour, but Mrs. Patton's body has not been found, though the river has been dragged and every effort made to locate the body.

The Patten family were having a reunion at their home near Columbia, and A. V. Eugene and Miss Christine are the only children of the Rev. J. W. Patton, a well known Baptist minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Patton have only been married about two years. Mrs. Patton was a Miss Mary Paschall, of Nashville, before her marriage.

About 500 fans saw Paducah outplay Hopkinsville at League park yesterday afternoon, winning by a score of 3 to 1. Floyd pitched a good game and was given excellent support.

Angermeier saved the Indians in a pinch in the fifth when Brown and Blue were on bases. Overton and Angermeier chased after it, but seeing that it would fall outside the line he went no further. Overton then flew out to Cox and Brown scored on Lockhart's wild throw to Overton.

"Zeke" Taylor, captain of the Hopkinsville club and working behind the bat, was benched in the first of the eighth by Umpire Rieser for "back talk." Taylor first refused to get out of the game and it looked like there would be trouble. He finally gave up his mit to Grueser. Crane pitched a good game for the Lunatics, but their errors were costly.

In speaking of him the Indianapolis Star said: "The youngsters made a big hit with the crowd by his shiftiness in the field. His work at the bat was perhaps a little below par but then there wasn't much doing among any of the brothers in this important line."

Daily Thought.
Life is a measure to be filled, not a cup to be drained.—President Hadley.

CONFUSION.

Last week was a strenuous one for the guessing bureaus of the daily press at Beverly and Oyster Bay and a collation of the various guesses is entertaining if not enlightening as to the real political situation. That most of the stuff sent out, both by the regular news gathering associations and the special bureaus of the big city dailies were guesses, is shown by the varying constructions placed upon Taft's and Roosevelt's inaction. The skill with which the articles are written becomes apparent, when one realizes that they really are putting construction on inaction, and giving it the semblance of action. For instance the New York Sun and the New York Times agree that Roosevelt and Taft have had a row, and the Sun speaks of Roosevelt's restrain in the matter of the New York state convention as follows:

"But he doesn't want to go, because he does not care to buck the administration yet, and his appearance in Saratoga would mean that very thing."

The New York Times has it that he "may not go to the convention on the ground that his presence there might lead to the belief that he is willing to endorse the Taft administration."

You may take your choice or leave them both alone, but the simplest construction one can put on Roosevelt's determination not to go to the New York state convention is that his name was dragged before the committee without his authority, and that the insurgent element is endeavoring to force Mr. Roosevelt and President Taft to take a hand in New York. They will, too, if they see a chance to carry the state this fall. Otherwise, they will keep hands off and let the machine take its whipping, just as Taft seems determined to do in Ohio. Then the party will be bawling for them to take charge.

The Chicago Tribune, excellent newspaper, but politically under the spell of the Chicago free trade importing and mail order houses, Saturday editorially vouched for the Saturday Evening Post story of an open breach between Taft and Roosevelt, and Sunday morning published the following concise statement from Theodore Roosevelt:

"I have sent no ultimatum to President Taft. The report is a tissue of falsehood from beginning to end, and has no warrant in fact."

A dispatch from Utica, N. Y., quotes Marvin K. Hart, "fresh from a conference with Colonel Roosevelt," as saying:

"We have read much lately about the threatened break between the president and the ex-president. I want to tell you, and I have reasons for my opinion, that I believe there is absolutely no truth in the story. But I do believe there has been a base attempt to create the impression that such a break existed, and that with such attempt Barnes, Woodruff, and Ward have been identified."

"I assert that Mr. Sherman knew full well that it was Mr. Taft's wish that no move toward choosing a temporary chairman be made without the fullest consultation with Mr. Roosevelt. The telegram from Mr. Taft to Mr. Sherman to the effect appears to have been suppressed, for nothing has been heard of it. I ask Mr. Sherman if it is not true that in spite of knowing that Mr. Roosevelt had shown his willingness to act as temporary chairman, and in the face of Mr. Taft's telegram, he personally solicited votes for himself as temporary chairman on Monday night in New York City.

"Mr. Sherman, by lending himself to this act of pettiest politics, by insisting upon holding the appointment as a temporary chairman, if he can hold it, has allied himself with the Woodruff-Barnes element and has threatened the disruption of the party in the state. The people already are doubting it to be possible that a misunderstanding between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft, at least as to the New York situation, could take place, and I challenge Mr. Sherman to show any act or word on the part of President Taft approving his part in the recent transaction."

So, we have two stories during the week of a break between President Taft and Theodore Roosevelt, and an ultimatum from the latter; followed by his denunciation of the story "as a lie"—and this is not the first time the colonel has been compelled to use the "short and ugly" concerning an associated press report recently—then an explanation from a politician "fresh from a conference with Roosevelt," that there is no disagreement between old friends.

Naturally Mr. Roosevelt intends to keep out of the way and let Mr. Taft work out his own salvation. By sticking his finger into the boiling pot, he would only spoil the administration's broth and scald himself. The Chicago-Record Herald correspondent, after admitting that only Colonel Roosevelt knows "where he is at," makes this comment:

"Insurgency had not developed thoroughly until Roosevelt was out and Taft in. Then it came on apace. It was directed against the old leadership in congress. President Taft had his heart set on securing certain things—progressive policies—and to it he must work through the organization of the party in congress as he found it. He knew the growing intensity of feeling between the factions and their leaders, but he could not see how he would obtain any record as a chief magistrate by intrusting his fortunes to the little group of insurgents who were bucking the then firmly entrenched old guard.

"As time went on the president conceived the notion that certain of the insurgent leaders were more bent on discrediting his administration than they were on enacting the policies for which he and, as he believed, the party, stood. He viewed it as a personal fight. The breach widened, and it did not help the popularity of the president among the constituencies of progressives in the middle west. At the same time it appeared as if those who had been taken to the president's bosom intended to 'throw him down' in the end, and it is well known now that when they started the 'old guard' leaders never had designed to give the president all that was done eventually in the last session."

While all goes to sustain just what The Evening Sun said Friday: "that there is no split between the president and Mr. Roosevelt; that the Republican party organization is in the process of being moulded to the times; that the president is a party, and not a faction leader; that there is a perfect understanding between the old friends, by which Roosevelt is to keep the insurgent element well in hand until the Cannon-Aldrich combination is put out of the way, to hold the party organization together, while Taft permanently secures the progressive policies for which they both stand.

"But he doesn't want to go, because he does not care to buck the administration yet, and his appearance in Saratoga would mean that very thing."

The New York Times has it that he "may not go to the convention on the ground that his presence there might lead to the belief that he is willing to endorse the Taft administration."

You may take your choice or leave them both alone, but the simplest construction one can put on Roosevelt's determination not to go to the New York state convention is that his name was dragged before the committee without his authority, and that the insurgent element is endeavoring to force Mr. Roosevelt and President Taft to take a hand in New York. They will, too, if they see a chance to carry the state this fall. Otherwise, they will keep hands off and let the machine take its whipping, just as Taft seems determined to do in Ohio. Then the party will be bawling for them to take charge.

The Chicago Tribune, excellent newspaper, but politically under the spell of the Chicago free trade importing and mail order houses, Saturday editorially vouched for the Saturday Evening Post story of an open breach between Taft and Roosevelt, and Sunday morning published the following concise statement from Theodore Roosevelt:

"The tariff, the underlying cause of the present unrest in the Republican party, is at least no more oppressive under the Payne law than under the Hepburn law, which marked the extreme attempted by Mr. Roosevelt in that direction. The cause of conservation, whatever conservation may mean, has been advanced, not retarded, by the legislation enacted since Mr. Taft became president. The corporation tax law gives the government a power of inspection and supervision far greater than was ever before exercised.

Whether with or against the will of Mr. Taft, the truth is plain that his administration, in its less than two years of existence, has done more to give form and substance to the Roosevelt policies than was effected by their author. Even the tariff, which Mr. Roosevelt left untouched, has been placed in process of final adjustment, though this result was not the one aimed at when congress was called together in extraordinary session."

The Louisville Post takes up the Folk alarm and treats of it in this wise:

"Mose, they've discovered the north pole." "Deed!" exclaimed the old negro. "Where at?"—Everybody's Magazine.

MODERN MODE IN ACTING

Ever so often some dramatic writer or critic, generally a man past middle life, whose views are retrospective, will prepare an article for his paper in which he deplores the decline of legitimate acting and the commercialism of the stage. He will rant for a column about the evils of the "star system," and call for a return of the "pammy days of the drama," forgetting that the suit of clothes which he wears is cut in the latest fashion, his hat of the prevailing mode and everything surrounding him of the current style.

Why does not such a man stop to think that the public sets a fashion in amusement—fashion which the actor must live up to or be dropped by the wayside?

It stands to reason that we have today on the American stage more and better actors than we had 50 years ago. More persons are educated in this day, the average man has greater advantages, plays are more lavishly mounted, the atmosphere which surrounds the actor is more conducive to successful work and the profession is recognized as belonging to the arts, and the prejudice against it is fast dying out.

The great actors, whose names have been handed down from the last several generations, are not so many, and our children will be able to speak to an equal or greater number in the next generation.

Booth, Forrest, McCullough and their compatriots, while there is no gain-saying their talent, shone resplendent by contrast to the material around them. In the days of the menace of the future growth of the Democratic party. His alarm is not entirely groundless. None of the great parties stands still. Society itself is constantly in a process of transformation. The political pool is never stagnant. The insurgent cry is simply the cry of the progressives. Its motto is "Forward." Its spirit is the true spirit of democracy. It is more rampant in the west, but it is seething through every eastern state. This is the movement Mr. Bryan thought he was leading in 1896, and he looks to it still as the hope for the supremacy of the Democratic party hereafter. It is groundless hope. The Democratic party is divided between two opinions. It is separated into factions. Its leaders lack consistency of purpose and loyalty to Democratic principle. It is gradually passing under the dominion of the liquor traffic and losing what claims it formerly had to popular confidence. The result is that men everywhere are looking to the progressive leaders of the Republican party, to Roosevelt and his followers in the east; to Beveridge, Dooliver, Cummings, Lafollette and Bristow, in the west.

Down in Sunny Tennessee, where the independent Democrats and Republicans have combined on a Republican governor, and a Democratic board of railroad commissioners and, probably, a fusion legislature. The Memphis News-Schmitz, is calling on the Democratic party to turn its back on state rights, and advocate a centralized government with extended authority to regulate trade.

The unrest is widespread; the national administration is in the vortex of it, too, to be sure, because it is the government, but every state is a whirlpool of seething public opinion, and voters are becoming patriots, instead of partisans.

COMPLAINTS FROM NORTHERN AND CENTRAL GEORGIA.

August Fruitage Has Been Heavy in the Majority, and Crop Is Now in the Best State.

TEXAS RAINFALL TOO LIGHT.

Memphis, Aug. 22.—Unfavorable reports come from Texas and northern and central Georgia. Elsewhere with local exceptions the crop is now in the best state of promise of the season. The August fruitage has been heavy and the plant is thrifty and growing. In Oklahoma, with an average of late frost, the largest crop within a number of years will be harvested.

No shedding is reported except in the dry districts as above. The bolls on the plant are still young and continued favorable weather is needed for their proper development, while the general lateness of the plant in the matter of growth makes a late frost very desirable. With such a frost assured the general crop prospect would be favorable.

Telegraphic reports up to Sunday night show that Texas had no general rainfall during the week and that deterioration of the crop has been checked over a limited and scattered territory, comprised mainly of the lower Panhandle and northern and extreme western central Texas. The heavy movement in the south and southwest is the result of rapid and premature opening of bolls. The crop is now nearly matured.

Boll weevils have destroyed considerable cotton in Louisiana and southern Mississippi, but elsewhere have not been an important factor with the crop.

At the Star Theater. The particular feature act at the Star theater for the first three days of the week will be Sidney Forrester and Miss Ray Lloyd who present an up-to-date comedy sketch and from the start it is easy to see that they are artists. Mr. Forrester is a company of the highest class. The "Show Girl" which was so popular for the last few seasons is his work, and the selections he presents in his act are of the very best; this should be sufficient guarantee of the work of the team. Miss Lloyd presents some character dances that call for numerous encores.

In Keller and Grogan we have a great combination, Keller is a wrestler and Grogan a blind piano player. The two have been together for sometime and the press claim for this act as being the very best of its kind now on the vaudeville stage. A good illustrated song sung by Frank Long and two reels of motion pictures will also be on the program at each performance. Admission $10c. Children 5c.

The Law and Order Movement. A man descended from an excursion train and was wearily making his way to the street car followed by his wife and fourteen children, when a policeman touched him on the shoulder and said:

"Come along with me."

"What for?"

"Blamed if I know; but when ye're locked up I'll go back and find out why that crowd was following ye."—Everybody's Magazine.

MONEY SITUATION IS MUCH BETTER

PROSPECTS OF MONEY SQUEEZE REDUCED.

Politics Causes Some Apprehension And Produces Inactivity on Market.

CROP OUTLOOK IS PROMISING.

New York, Aug. 22.—We are now in a stage of the year when conditions are least favorable to activity. It is vacation time and the number of absences is large. Our harvest still possesses some uncertainties, and it is the period between seasons when commercial operations are generally at a minimum. Such conditions are, of course, not calculated to stimulate activity. Nevertheless, the tendencies are towards improvement and the inertia which now exists in the business world is what was most needed to permit of readjustment and lay the basis for a fresh recovery later on.

The greatest betterment has been in the monetary situation. Owing to recent pressure exerted by banks in all parts of the country, prospects of a money squeeze this autumn which once caused considerable apprehension have now been reduced to a minimum. At worst there is nothing to be feared except possibly local and temporary stringency when the crops move. The Eastern banks have greatly strengthened their resources, and will be abundantly able to meet any interior demands. Liquidation has also materially strengthened the interior. The surplus reserve of the New York banks is now over $55,000,000, having shown a remarkable rise in the past five or six weeks. We have already imported about $20,000,000 of gold, which has proved sufficient, although only half of the $40,000,000 which it was anticipated would be required a few weeks ago. The improvement in the local banking situation has been so pronounced as to discourage further gold imports, unless there be a sudden and unexpected increase in merchandise exports. Bankers are now pursuing a more liberal policy towards their customers, and the demand for commercial paper has correspondingly improved. As business operations had previously been materially curtailed through pressure from banking sources the relief in the latter quarter should in due time make itself manifest in great business activity. At present general trade is very quiet. Buyers have been pursuing a hand-to-mouth policy, and many establishments in the iron, textile, leather and other industries have been obliged to materially reduce their output. It is recognized that the whole country has entered a stage of operability, which is due partly to diminished purchasing power, and partly to an excessive enlargement of producing capacity. This readjustment between production and consumption, or supply and demand, cannot be immediately accomplished, but the evil is fully recognized and the curative process is now fully underway. As already said, the rest cure is working out beneficial results, and is likely, as of old, to prove the best restorative known.

Politics.

Some uneasiness is felt regarding the political situation; but it must be remembered that the actual effect of politics upon business is generally less in fact than in sentiment. When economic conditions become sounder, business will promptly rally with comparatively little regard to politics. Our foreign trade, though showing very unsatisfactory results for the entire fiscal year, is at last giving signs of return to the normal. Though imports continue very heavy, amounting to $117,000,000 in July, or nearly $5,000,000 in excess of last year, exports reached $114,500,000, or a little more than $5,000,000 in excess of the same month of last year. The July exports have been only exceeded once—in the banner year 1907; and there has been a steady gain over last year each month since February. Our imports have, as everyone knows, been stimulated by business activity, high prices and general extravagance; our purchases of luxuries from Europe, particularly precious stones, being remarkably heavy. The present tendency, however, towards economy, lessened activity, and lower prices will eventually have the effect of discouraging imports and stimulating exports; thus bringing our foreign trade back to more normal conditions. It is unfortunate that our crops this year are not larger, but some offset to this drawback will be found in increasing shipments of manufactured articles. Europe will be obliged to buy our cotton freely at good prices, and this will be an important factor in adjusting our trade balances. Our exports of food products, however, promise to be strictly moderate, as we have relatively little to spare and our prices are still too high to tempt foreign buying. During the first six months Europe was a liberal purchaser of our securities, to which cause we are no doubt indebted for recent gold imports in face of an adverse merchandise balance. It is hardly to be expected that foreign capital will flow into the United States with the same freedom in the latter half of 1910 as in the first

CARE OF VALUABLE BOOKS.

When the million and a half dollars worth of books, prints, volumes in rare bindings, manuscripts, and illuminations that are the especial care of Mr. Eames at the Lenox Library journey down to their new home at Forty-second street and Fifth avenue some time in the fall they will find a suite of rooms waiting for them. Here they will be arranged in cases around the walls in the same chronological order in which they are placed in their present home.

The cases will have strong, firmly woven wire doors which lock securely. The chief enemies of books are dust and lack of air, and the chief problem in their care is how to combat both at the same time.

Glass doors were abolished some time ago at the Lenox Library because of their injurious effect on fine bindings through keeping out the air, and the doors used in the new library will be of woven wire similar to those which were substituted, but finer meshed. As for dust, what comes in must come in, but the endeavor will be to keep it out.—New York Sun.

There were nearly 3,000 entries at the International Horse Show recently held in London.

AFTER DOCTORS FAILED

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 22.—"I suffered with pains low down in my right side for a year or more and was so weak and nervous that I could not do my work," I wrote to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and am glad to say that your medicines and kind letters of directions have done more for me than anything else and I had the best physicians here. I can well at night. I believe there is nothing like the Lydia E. Pinkham remedies." Mrs. CLARA FRANKS, R. F. D., No. 3, Knoxville, Tenn.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, indigestion, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregular periods, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulence, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills, and suffering women owe it to themselves to at least give this medicine a trial.

Proof is abundant that it has cured thousands of others, and why should it not cure you?

If you want special advice write Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for it. It is free and always helpful.

half; and the situation is now less favorable to gold imports.

Stocks.

The technical situation of the stock market has been visibly strengthened. The conviction spreads that the low prices at the end of July will not be seen again for some time to come. Although the recovery from the break has been sharp, perhaps too sharp, a good many stocks are still good purchases from the investment point of view. For the time being the investment demand has been checked, but confidence is steadily growing and our prominent bankers and financial leaders are daily becoming more and more confident regarding the future. This is shown by improvement in the bond market. There are still several uncertainties such as the crops, the political outlook, the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases, the question of railroad rates, etc., which are to be settled, but the worst respecting these it would seem has been fully discounted. Very soon two of the pivotal crops, corn and cotton, will be out of danger. The prospects for these are still improving. Corn promises to reach about a 3,000,000,000 yield, and current estimates are for 12,000,000 bales of cotton, which is showing less deterioration in August than usual. There is still the danger of early frost, but each week reduces the area liable to such damage. Spring wheat crop is already turning out better than expected. After Labor Day holidays business should begin to resume more normal activity. The vacations will be over and the stock market should feel a corresponding inspiration. Altogether the outlook is reasonably cheerful. The process of readjustment has been thorough in the stock market, and is now being worked out in industrial and commercial quarters. There is no reason for undue apprehension; on the contrary there is sound reason for believing that after a further period of rest the whole country will be entitled to a fresh forward movement upon a lower and more normal plane.

HOOPER IS SURE OF SUPPORT.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 22.—There will be no independent Democratic candidate for governor nominated in Tennessee this year. It is the fixed policy of leaders of the independent faction to support the Republican nominee.

The fusion understanding of what ever it may be called between the independent Democrats and Republicans through which such a victory for a non-partisan judiciary was won August 4, will be carried through the approaching gubernatorial campaign as the best and most certain way to accomplish the defeat of Patterson and rid the state of political machine methods.

Fusion Will Stand.

The issue has been clearly drawn. It is anti-Pattersonism vs. Pattersonism. There is no disposition on the part of independent leaders to compromise on a single point. They are determined to carry out the fusion with Republicans. In this they are backed by the rank and file of the anti-machine Democrats.

They believe the only hope for the success of Gov. Patterson and his forces in November would be the nomination of an independent Democratic candidate for governor. Those Democrats opposed to Patterson and his policies will have the alternative of voting for the Republican nominee or of staying at home.

Want Legislature Most.

Rumors are current that administrationists would be willing to sacrifice their nominees to see him withdraw if they could hope to control the next general assembly and repeal the temperance and election laws.

It is rumored, in other words, that the administration forces might be willing to reward any man or men now ranked with the independents who might be willing to assist the administration in its efforts to elect a majority of the next legislature.

There is no indication, however, that this plan will work, for those Democrats who supported the independent judiciary ticket are standing pat with singular unanimity, declaring that the Republicans stood by them in the recent judiciary campaign, and they in turn propose to act in entire good faith with the Republicans, supporting the nominee of Tuesday's convention.

There has been speculation as to whether there is likely to be a joint discussion between Captain Hooper and Governor Patterson. It is confidently predicted that there is no likelihood of such. Both nominees will take the stump early in September and will carry on an active, aggressive campaign throughout the state.

IS A FIGHT WITH DETAILS.

White Tennessee has never seen a more strenuous campaign than that which ended with the judiciary election August 4, the campaign between now and November promises to be more strenuous. In addition to electing a governor and railroad commissioner next November, the people will elect a new general assembly. It will be a fight of numerous details, in which administrationists and independent Democrats and Republicans will use every effort to elect a majority of members of the next law-making body.

WILL INTERFERE WITH THE FAIR.

Columbus, Aug. 20.—Gov. Harmon is bending every energy to bring about a settlement of the street car strike here before the state fair opens on August 29. Entries to the fair open Saturday, and there is fear that if the strike is continued the fair may be postponed. The governor says he will keep the troops here at least until after the state fair in case the strike is not settled before that time.

Touching Memories Recalled.

There were introductions all around. The big man stared in a puzzled way at the club guest. "You look like a man I've seen somewhere, Mr. Blinker," he said. "Your face seems familiar. I fancy you have a double. And a funny thing about it is that I remember I formed a strong prejudice against the man who looks like you—although, I'm quite sure, we never met."

He little guest softly laughed. "I'm the man," he answered, "and I know why you formed the prejudice. I passed the contribution plate for two years in the church you attended."—Everybody's Magazine.

Beware the Dog!

A family moved from the city to a suburban locality and were told that they should get a watch-dog to guard the premises at night. So they bought the largest dog that was for sale in the kennels of a neighboring dog fancier, who was a German. Shortly afterward the house was entered by burglars, who made a good haul, while the big dog slept. The man went to the dog fancier and told him about it.

"Why not hurdle the tempest, cat?" cried Craighead.

"Those highest towers," replied Carson, pointing to the thunder heads now again snowy in the moonlight, "are thirty, forty, fifty thousand feet high."

"Well, what do we care?" protested Craighead.

"There's an opening yonder in the rain," said Carson. "If it doesn't close up we may slip through to the back of the storm again."

As if the wings of the advancing army had extended its lines until they pulled apart in the center, the rain opened.

"We must go lower," said Carson, "and pass under. The rain is closing in, but I reckon we can slip through prettily."

"Well, what do we care?" protested Craighead.

The oncoming black arch, lighted to whiteness when the lightning blazed, swelled fearfully as they approached, its rainless gap narrowing moment by moment. It was a race with the elements. The penalty if they lost was, to be sure, nothing more than a drenching, but it was none the less exciting for that. The curtains of water, drawn aside as if to let the travelers through, swung together as they approached.

"Whoop!" cried Craighead. "The Virginia wins!"

As he spoke they passed under the rain cloud.

Carson was thinking of Shayne's and conjecturing as to its whereabouts. If he read his chart correctly the lights seen afar to the northeast indicated that they had left the Kainterskill behind and were nearing the Bluff.
